The discredited 'old gang' parties and their friends in the media don't want you to know the truth about the British National Party.

The British National Party is made up of ordinary British people, just like you, who are worried about the future of our country.

That's why they resort to name-calling and refuse to debate with us or allow us access to the media, so we can put forward our policies.

Please take a look inside this special edition of Freedom and MAKE UP YOUR OWN MIND about the British National Party.

THIS was the first time the British National Party had stood in the Louth Wolds seat of Lincolnshire County Council.

The vast rural ward spanned the centre of the Lincolnshire Wolds and it was an excellent effort from those BNP activists who accomplished their mission of delivering a leaflet to every household.

The Reverend Robert West was our excellent candidate and he was delighted to beat the UKIP candidate in a ward they believed they would do well in. Other objectives achieved, were to get 10% and to beat the Labour Party yet again which just shows how support for the Government party is rapidly dwindling in Lincolnshire.

THE news that the British National Party had beaten the Labour Party in the Henley parliamentary by-election was broadcast all around the world.

The election itself, even before that dramatic result had been announced, was attracting global interest and BNP candidate Tim Rait, met up with Tamami Kasamatsu at one of the polling stations in Thame as he did some last minute canvassing.

Tamami was from the Legislative

Bureau of the House of Representatives in Tokyo and she was in Henley to act as an observer of our election process for the Japanese Government. She was very interested in the BNP and was aware of the hostile press we received and our concerns about the impartiality of some of those conducting our elections. She was keen to find out from Tim whether the Party believed it had been treated fairly by the authorities and media during the Henley campaign.

The meeting itself heard from a range of speakers including Mike Turner, Exeter Organiser, Peter Mullins, SW Regional Organiser, Michaela Mackenzie, Party Support Officer, and Lawrence West, a local candidate, before enjoying a lavish buffet followed by a question and answer session with the Party chairman..

The meeting was chaired by local BNP councillor Colin Fribbens (BNP Parish Councillor) while Chris Marchant filmed the event for BNP TV.

BNP gaining ground in Tony Blair's old seat

STANDING for the first time for the town council in Newton Aycliffe in Co Durham on 24th July, the British National Party polled 28.2% and came within 96 votes of taking the seat from Labour.

The result sent shock waves right through the political establishment in the North East as Newton Aycliffe is regarded as 'Labour Party central' - the town which kept Tony Blair in a safe seat for 24 years.

Labour were so concerned that they might lose the Simpasture seat to BNP candidate John Hilton, that Sedgefield MP Phil Wilson, was out canvassing along with his Party's prospective MEP and local Labour councillors.

At the count it was very clear that Labour only won because of the postal vote. On the votes cast in the ballot box on polling day, the BNP were clearly the best supported party.

Barnbrook briefing

THERE were over 100 people at the BNP meeting in Wrexham last month to hear a speech from the British National Party's new GLA representative Richard Barnbrook. Richard not only detailed the achievements of the Party in London in general and Barking & Dagenham Branch in particular, but he also explained his work within the London Assembly and what he wanted to achieve on behalf of the people of London. "Our success in London has been achieved by hard work, pure and simple," he told the audience. "We have got out and talked and listened to the public, showing them the real face of the British National Party and they have responded accordingly". He went on to call for this strategy to be replicated in Wales: "Your battle will be won here in Wrexham on the doorstep building up a rapport with voters and showing them that there is a political party that has the answers to the problems this country faces."

Richard received a standing ovation and was thanked by Bill Murray, Welsh Regional Secretary and North Wales Organiser for travelling up from London. He reported that during the meeting several more members had been signed up and another two had come forward as potential candidates. Bill then announced the formation of six new and reconstructed groups within North Wales: Wrexham, Buckley, Prestatyn, Rhyl, Flint, and Alyn & Deeside.

"With contacts across North Wales we will soon have the whole of the region covered," he said. Adding that this was "a far cry from what the main parties had predicted, claiming there was no place for the BNP in Wales!"

AFTER Freedom reported on a meeting of Solihull BNP where the guest speaker, Gill Bailey, spoke about the plight of one of the British Army's finest fighting forces, the Gurkhas, readers rallied round to help.

Gill, who is 61 years-old, was raising funds for the Gurkhas by doing a sponsored 'wing-walk' which involved standing on the wing of a plane whilst it was taking off, then flying around and landing.

He was a BNP candidate for Tudhoe in the Durham County Council elections in May, missing out on a seat on the council by just 129 votes.

Now Bishop Auckland Labour MP Helen Goodman, and Roberta Blackman Woods, Labour MP for Durham City, are demanding his removal in the interests of anti-racism and multicultural education.

"I am surprised that the governing body has appointed someone who was a candidate for the BNP," Goodman told the Northern Echo. Woods told the same newspaper: "Appointments at schools should make sure that the person is able to implement anti-racism policy."

But Dr Jane Philbrick, chairwoman of the board of governors at Teesdale TRAFALGAR CLUB: After a buffet lunch, TC members enjoyed a tour of Adam and Jan Champney's farm in Kent.

'Darling Buds of May' for TC members in July

THE Trafalgar Club, the British National Party's fund-raising black tie dining club, has been branching out into some extra activities as well as the traditional evening dinner parties.

Organised by Jenny Noble, the last weekend in July saw a buffet lunch and visit to the beautiful Kent home and farming estate of Adam and Jan Champney.

This visit had originally been scheduled for earlier in the year as a 'Darling Buds of May' event, but had to be postponed because so many of those who wanted to come were busy helping BNP candidate Tim Rait, beat Labour in the Henley by-election.

In the end, it was well worth the wait, with the day being declared a great success by the Trafalgar Club members from the South and East that attended. It is hoped to hold another day event later in the year for some of the TC members in the Midlands and the North.

These are of course in addition to the Trafalgar Weekend Dinner and historical outing, which this year takes place on 18th - 19th October and, as always, is open to all TC members (completely free) and a paying guest each.

Income from the Trafalgar Club continues to play a vital role in funding all sorts of BNP projects, so thanks are owed to all TC donors and, in particular, Mr & Mrs Champneys for the use of their lovely home and for the splendid buffet lunch.

MEMBERS of the TRAFALGAR CLUB make a real difference to the British National Party.

They pledge a minimum of £15 a month, in return for which they are entered into a regular prize draw, receive occasional special internal bulletins and are entitled to attend the annual Trafalgar Club dinner free of charge.

In addition, fully paid up first year members receive a Trafalgar Club tie which carries the first two 'words' of Nelson's semaphore signal before the Battle of Trafalgar - "England Expects". Ladies receive a personalised organiser file.

Second year members receive a fine enamel badge and third year members a specially-designed umbrella.

The Trafalgar Club always welcomes new members.

Stoke BNP councillors fight to keep school open

MICHAEL COLEMAN: "Keep Longton High open until the new school is built."

The nine British National Party councillors on Stoke-on-Trent Council have delayed the closure of a local high school, arguing that it will damage pupils' education.

The move comes after the City Council's executive voted to shut Longton High, in Meir, and move students to Sandon & Edensor Technology College which is itself due to be replaced by a new academy in 2011.

The BNP group blocked the move, which will now be referred to a scrutiny committee, proposing instead that Longton High should stay open until the new academy is built at Park Hall. The BNP believes this would help protect the education of current Longton pupils, especially those who have special needs and are receiving extra support. It would also enable parents to make more informed choices about which secondary school to apply to in future years.

BNP councillor Michael Coleman, who represents the Weston and Meir North ward, said:

"We feel the closure of Longton High School will be too hasty and it will leave children in the lurch. The best education for the children would be offered by keeping it open until there is a replacement school."

Parents and governors have supported the BNP councillors, agreeing that delaying the closure would give pupils more stability because they could keep their current teachers rather than becoming part of a split-site Sandon High.

VALE OF GLAMORGAN SHOW: Local BNP representatives are joined by members from Swansea and Newport at their tent.

The British National Party had a political stall at August's Vale of Glamorgan agricultural show for the third year running.

It was held as usual in the stunning grounds of Fonnmon Castle, but once again weather spoilt the event with torrential rain leaving the ground sodden and visitors to the show ankle deep in good old Welsh mud. Thankfully that didn't stop several hundred back copies of Freedom and five hundred leaflets being handed out to interested members of the public.

For the first time ever the British National Party was represented at the Pembrokeshire Show, where the well positioned stand attracted a lot of interest from the passing public who were happy to meet the real people who make up the BNP.

Over 3,000 leaflets were handed out

"Our tent was constantly busy with people asking about the Party, and we also did a brisk trade in the sales of badges and BNP mugs. This was a stark contrast to the stalls of the Labour and Conservative Parties which people seemed to go out of their way to avoid," Kevin told Freedom.

MICHAEL COLEMAN: "Keep Longton High open until the new school is built."

THE nine British National Party councillors on Stoke-on-Trent Council have delayed the closure of a local high school, arguing that it will damage pupils' education.

The move comes after the City Council's executive voted to shut Longton High, in Meir, and move students to Sandon & Edensor Technology College which is itself due to be replaced by a new academy in 2011.

The BNP group blocked the move,

which will now be referred to a scrutiny committee, proposing instead that Longton High should stay open until the new academy is built at Park Hall. The BNP believes this would help protect the education of current Longton pupils, especially those who have special needs and are receiving extra support. It would also enable parents to make more informed choices about which secondary school to apply to in future years.

BNP councillor Michael Coleman, who represents the Weston and Meir North ward, said:

"We feel the closure of Longton High School will be too hasty and it will leave children in the lurch. The best education for the children would be offered by keeping it open until there is a replacement school."

Parents and governors have supported the BNP councillors, agreeing that delaying the closure would give pupils more stability because they could keep their current teachers rather than becoming part of a split-site Sandon High.

Welsh county shows provide fertile recruitment ground

VALE OF GLAMORGAN SHOW: Local BNP representatives are joined by members from Swansea and Newport at their tent.

PEMBROKESHIRE SHOW: West Wales BNP councillors Kevin Edwards and Watcyn Richards at their popular stall.

THE British National Party had a political stall at August's Vale of Glamorgan agricultural show for the third year running.

It was held as usual in the stunning grounds of Fommon Castle, but once again weather spoilt the event with torrential rain leaving the ground sodden and visitors to the show ankle deep in good old Welsh mud. Thankfully that didn't stop several hundred back copies of Freedom and five hundred leaflets being handed out to interested members of the public.

For the first time ever the British National Party was represented at the Pembrokeshire Show, where the well positioned stand attracted a lot of interest from the passing public who were happy to meet the real people who make up the BNP.

Over 3,000 leaflets were handed out over the two days and 14 new members were signed up. Even though the weather was diabolical West Wales organiser Kevin Edwards, was delighted by the amount of interest shown by the public in the British National Party.

"Our tent was constantly busy with people asking about the Party, and we also did a brisk trade in the sales of badges and BNP mugs. This was a stark contrast to the stalls of the Labour and Conservative Parties which people seemed to go out of their way to avoid," Kevin told Freedom.

New leaflet launches BNP Euro Election campaign

HALF a million new recruitment leaflets have been printed to launch the British National Party's European Election campaign. Designed by the BNP's in-house graphics and publicity guru Mark Collett, the eye-catching leaflet has already proved very popular with BNP units.

"50,000 were sold in just two hours at the RWB Family Festival last month," Mark told Freedom.

"I've incorporated in this new leaflet a condensed version of the old Where We Stand policy statement which has been one of the Party's best selling leaflets in recent years.

"I'm delighted with the initial response from the units and we hope to have another 500,000 printed before the end of the year."

Branches and groups who want leaflets delivered on the literature run should contact John Walker at BNP Dispatch, as should those who want them sent by post - postage rates will be quoted on individual orders.

Because it's not racist to oppose mass immigration and political correctness - it's commonsense.

This is the real face of the British National Party - a family organisation that wants to put British people first.

The British National Party is Britain's fastest growing political party. Made up of thousands of people just like you - with a common goal of making sure that British people are put first.

The BNP don't 'hate' anyone, we just want to make sure that our own people aren't turned into second class citizens.

The British National Party don't blame immigrants either - we blame the politicians who have let this country down.

BNP The Only Party That Offers You A REAL ALTERNATIVE

The British National Party is run by ordinary people for ordinary people. We're not backed by big business or vested interests, so we're not in anyone's pocket and are free to stand up for commonsense and justice.

The British National Party already has over 100 candidates all over the UK and is set to win the Greater London Assembly and the good news is we will be standing in every seat in the country in the Euro Elections in June 2009 - an where ever you are you can vote for us against EU meddling and the out of control left parties.

What We Stand for

CRIME: A crack-down on crime with many more 'Bobbies on the Beat'. Much tougher treatment of criminals, including the return of capital punishment for child killers and terrorists. Zero tolerance for drug-dealers and violent thugs.

IMMIGRATION: An end to immigration and bogus asylum seekers flooding Britain. Use the £billions wasted in foreign aid to fund 'Homeward Bound' schemes to encourage immigrants to return to their land of ethnic origin.

INDUSTRY: British ownership and control of British industry and resources, including the mass media. Protection of British jobs and industry by selective exclusion of foreign manufactured goods from the British market.

HEALTH: We will use the vast sums of money now wasted on funding our membership of the European Union for the restoration of an effective national health service and proactive measures to produce a healthier population in the first place.

EUROPEAN UNION: British withdrawal from the European Union to restore Britain's freedom. We will trade with Europe where it benefits Britain, but want no political ties or monetary union.

EDUCATION: A return to traditional methods of education, with stronger discipline in the classroom and an end to 'trendy' teaching methods which have failed our children so badly.

ENVIRONMENT: A healthy environment for a healthy people - the protection of our countryside. A ban on greenfield-site house building except in exceptional cases of genuine local need, an end to field trials of GM crops, and the restoration of our 200 mile fishing limit.

Help Us To Put Things RIGHT

Where We Stand

Lower Tax For Working Families

The BNP would raise the level for paying income tax to £15,000 to help working families. Our withdrawal from the EU would save us £10bn.

A Better NHS With British Nurses

The British National Party would spend more money in the NHS and making jobs and make sure that British nurses were employed for a fair wage.

Stop The Energy Price Rip-Off

Stop greedy foreign energy companies ripping us off, driving the profits from domestic power to make British energy secure and independent.

Protect Our Beautiful Countryside

We need to protect our last pockets of green space. Developers should be forced to use urban sites instead of destroying our countryside.

Put An End To Immigration

Hundreds of thousands of immigrants flood our country every year - the BNP says enough is enough. It's time to shut the doors.

Housing British People First

Make sure that British families are housed BEFORE asylum seekers. It's time to put our own people first. Remember charity begins at home.

More Police on Our Streets

Rather than sitting about waiting for speeding motorists the police should be out on the beat dealing with anti-social yobs and real crime.

No Involvement in Foreign Wars

The BNP would withdraw our troops from Iraq and Afghanistan and say no to the EU's plans for a European Super Army.

Investment In British Business

The BNP would invest in British jobs and cut the red tape imposed on our businesses by the bureaucrats in Brussels.

Celebrating Our British Culture

Rather than wasting money on Matar and other minority events, the BNP will promote OUR culture. It's St. George's Day celebrations.

EURO - ELECTION APPEAL

The British National Party is on the verge of a major breakthrough into mainstream politics. In May, the BNP achieved another good set of local election results and gained representation on the Greater London Assembly. REMEMBER! It doesn't matter if you don't agree with us on every last policy. Like all the other democratic political parties, the British National Party includes some members who disagree with one or two policies. Just ask yourself whether you agree with more of our policies than those of Labour, the Tories and the Lib-Dems. Most people do, which is why we are the fastest growing political party in Britain today.

Righteous anger & political action

THE British National Party believes in telling the truth, even if it is sometimes uncomfortable to hear or offensive to those who would rather bury their heads in the sand than face real problems in our society.

But while we often pass quite critical comment on the impact of immigration, multi-culturalism and alien religions on the indigenous people of our lands, we have no animosity towards immigrants, their descendants or the followers of non-native religions.

Nor do we intend to encourage others to feel such animosity, or believe that anything we have to say is likely to 'stir up hatred' against anyone. In fact, we believe that by providing a peaceful and Constitutional outlet for the anger and the frustration felt by millions of our people over the undemocratic transformation of our country by our political masters, the BNP actually defuses tensions.

Where there is 'hate' we seek to turn it into righteous anger and political action against the only people who deserve to be hated - the politicians who use our taxes to turn our country into a place where we often feel like strangers in our own land.

It has openly admitted that it has been carrying out special repairs' surgeries for black and ethnic minority tenants across the borough's six towns. The surgeries were prompted after an increase in complaints from immigrant tenants that repair work wasn't being carried out quick enough and that visits to undertake repairs were being scheduled at inconvenient times.

In a special leaflet for immigrants tenants entitled "Working to raise satisfaction levels amongst Black Minority Ethnic customers" Sandwell Homes reassured its Somali tenants of changes in practice.

"Sandwell Homes has learnt that gatherings and prayer take place at 3.00pm every day within Somali communities. The company has taken this on board and now makes a point of organising repair visits before 3.00pm or offering early evening appointments." There have been no special repairs' surgeries for the housing association's traditional British tenants.

DIED IN PAIN: That's Halal Assured.

Make a stand against this cruel practice

WHEN Mike Whitby bought a frozen chicken from his local Farmfoods store in Wrexham, he was dismayed to find the packaging carried a special 'HALAL ASSURED' label.

Along with the Halal stamp, the product also displayed the Union Flag, denoting that it was produced in Great Britain. This set the alarm bells ringing for the BNP councillor because it shows that British food is being prepared in the Muslim way and being placed in our shops without the British people being properly informed.

"I rang Farmfoods' Head of Purchasing to complain," Mike told Freedom. "I asked him why Farmfoods were selling chickens that had been ritually slaughtered in a non-humane way, causing them to die in agony."

"He rang me back to tell me that just a small percentage of foods sold by the Cumbernauld based company were Halal Assured and that my complaint would be kept in mind when the company reviewed its purchasing policy."

SLAVE TRADE Making us feel guilty so we keep quiet about immigration

SCHOOL children will have compulsory lessons on the slave trade next term as the Government seeks to brainwash them into feeling guilty and hence unwilling to criticise immigration policy.

According to a Government briefing document one of the aims of the switch is to "put immigration, the Commonwealth and the legacy of the Empire into a clear historical context as this will help pupils prepare for life in a diverse and multi-ethnic society".

Kevin Brennan, the children's minister, said: "Although we may be ashamed to admit it, the slave trade is an integral part of British history. It is inextricably linked to trade, colonisation, industrialisation and the British Empire.

What Brennan conveniently ignores is that it was only today's equivalent of big business that benefited from the slave trade and that many British people were living at the time in conditions just as harsh as those experienced by the slaves.

Labour has betrayed the British coal industry

YOU would have thought that a Labour Government would have taken great pride in rebuilding Britain's coal industry after it had been devastated by the Tories, but nothing could be further from the truth.

■ COUNCIL taxpayers in Sheffield will have to find an extra £320,000 after the Labour Council told the city's Pakistan Muslim Centre that it needn't pay back a loan it received.

The centre was established in the late 1980s and, for a few years in the 1990s, received a substantial Single Regeneration Budget and European Union funding.

In 2001 the council gave the centre £30,000 a year to pay for core costs and also approved a loan of £320,000. Now the Pakistan Muslim centre has said it can't repay the loan and is not even paying any rent on its three buildings on the Woodbourn Road site.

Labour councillor Paul Scriven, said that the debt had to be scrapped to "put the Pakistan Muslim Centre on a firmer foundation which will enable it to continue its valuable work within the community."

■ PUBLIC services in Newham in East London are being stretched beyond their limits because of immigrants living in illegal 'homes'.

Many properties in the borough now have additional accommodation in the back garden, built without planning permission or fire safety clearance.

This is turning the area around East Ham high street into something resembling a shanty town with established immigrants housing new immigrant families and migrant workers in their back gardens.

■ DEADLY diseases, such as the Ebola virus, are entering Britain in illegal meat because the Government has gone soft on targeting the importation of illegal meat for fear of upsetting immigrant communities.

Last year the number of seizures of illegal bush meat destined for Britain's Somali population dropped by more than 10,000. This was directly related to the reduction of customs officers at entry ports across the country.

The product in question was produced by the 'Grampian Country Food Group Ltd', which is based in Livingston in Scotland, and Mike wants BNP members who shop in Farmfoods and see any Halal Assured products to complain to the management and to make sure the complaint goes all the way up to the head office.

Ritual slaughter is a barbaric way to kill an animal and unless people make a stand on this issue, it will become common practice in Britain as our Muslim population grows.

ROYAL Mail is scrapping deliveries to some rural outposts in Yorkshire because of 'safety issues'. Residents of the village of Booze were told that access to their homes was too steep for postmen to negotiate. In East Cleveland villagers with private access roads were told they would have to pick up their own mail. Royal Mail said the move had been taken because of "difficulty of access concerns" - but that's something that hadn't worried previous postmen.

Kipling is relevant to this 4th Afghan conflict as well

by Martin Wingfield

WITH the deaths of ten French soldiers last month joining the list of mounting British casualties of the last seven years of war in Afghanistan, and the growing Taliban army on the Pakistan border preparing for an offensive, there is no sign of an end to this latest conflict to beset the unhappy country.

It's a hopeless situation in Afghanistan today, as it has been for the past 200 years, and there can be no peaceful solution. It's the FOURTH Anglo-Afghan War! The chronology of conflict in Afghanistan below shows the daunting task facing our servicemen:

Afghan-Persian War 1816
 Afghan Rebellion 1818-1826
 Afghan-Sikh War 1836

4th Anglo-Afghan War 2001-

Nearly 100 years ago Rudyard Kipling was writing poems about the Third Anglo-Afghan War and his verse is as relevant today as it was back in 1919. Here's a stanza from The Young British Soldier...

ON PATROL: Where "Two thousand pounds of education drops to a ten-rupee jezail."

*When you're wounded and left on Afghanistan's plains,
 And the women come out to cut up
 what remains,
 Jest roll to your rifle and blow out your brains
 An' go to your Gawd like a soldier.
 Go, go, go like a soldier;
 Go, go, go like a soldier;
 Go, go, go like a soldier;
 So-soldier of the Queen!*

Here is another verse from a poem called Arithmetic On The Frontier...

*A scrimmage in a Border Station -
 A canter down some dark defile -
 Two thousand pounds of education
 Drops to a ten-rupee jezail -
 The Crammer's boast, the Squadron's pride,
 Shot like a rabbit in a ride!*

A jezail is a cheap home-made firearm that is just lashed together and was a favoured weapon of the Afghan tribes. To bring the poem theme up-to-date, here's a take on Kipling from Keith Thomson, a British National Party member from Southend-on-Sea. "I'm no poet," says Keith, "but I hope what I have written conveys the same message Rudyard Kipling was giving out all those years ago."

*Patrolling out on one occasion -
 A sortie down some dark defile -
 Two thousand years of civilisation
 Drops to a shot when lured in by guile -
 His mother's boast, the Army's pride.
 Now he's dead because Government lied.*

Sally Wood STRAIGHT TALKING

Awaiting the Roma

WE may not as yet have an anti-immigration Mayor in London, but there is one now installed in Rome. So what has led the good folk of the Italian capital to elect Gianni Alemanno as their Mayor?

Well, it seems the spark may well be the arrival of large numbers of Roma from Romania who now encircle Rome in their tents. Their arrival has been greeted with dismay by the Italians and especially so after an Italian lady was viciously raped and bludgeoned to death by one of their number.

The Roma are a travelling people who are thought to have originated in Northern India and travelled westward at a time before there were such things as state borders.

The EU having now removed Europe's borders, has turned the place into a gypsy paradise. Now they can unhitch their caravan or bang in their tent pegs in whichever country takes their fancy.

At the present time the UK has restrictions on the Romanians and Bulgarians moving here to live, but these are only in place for three years. If Rome's new Mayor decides to make life uncomfortable for the Roma there, we might see them turning a wistful eye towards the UK and to Slough in particular.

Although Slough may not have the same picture postcard appeal as Rome, that will be of little concern to the Roma. In Slough they would get to live in a proper house and crowd all the relatives in as well, and no-one there seems to mind very much that they do not understand the everyday minutiae of such services as rubbish collection. Travellers traditionally have never had to worry about such mundane matters - they just move on and leave others to clear up the mess.

Slough was the only place in England to have a swing towards Labour at the May Council elections. Now that could be due to the vagaries of the postal voting system or it might just be down to the grateful Roma already there, thanking Labour for putting out the welcome mat whilst awaiting the arrival of their kith and kin.

ROMA IN ROME: Movement is easy now the EU has done away with sovereign borders.

A jezail is a cheap home-made firearm that is just lashed together and was a favoured weapon of the Afghan tribes. To bring the poem theme up-to-date, here's a take on Kipling from Keith Thomson, a British National Party member from Southend-on-Sea. "I'm no poet," says Keith, "but I hope what I have written conveys the same message Rudyard Kipling was giving out all those years ago."

*Patrolling out on one occasion -

 Now he's dead because Government lied.*

Saluting British heroes

Lieutenant Colonel Robert Blair 'Paddy' Mayne

by Kieran Dinsmore

LIEUTENANT Colonel Robert Blair 'Paddy' Mayne was born in Newtownards and attended Regent House Grammar School.

From an early age his talent on the rugby field was apparent, with successes playing for his school, his Country and the British Lions. Blair Mayne is remembered principally for his military prowess. He first served with the Officer Training Corps at Queens University, Belfast, where he was studying law.

His military career begun in earnest in 1939 when he obtained a commission in the Royal Artillery. He went on to serve with the Royal Ulster Rifles, the Cameronians and the newly formed Scottish Commando,

The Roma are a travelling people who are thought to have originated in Northern India and travelled westward at a time before there were such things as state borders.

The EU having now removed Europe's borders, has turned the place into a gypsy paradise. Now they can unhitch their caravan or bang in their tent pegs in whichever country takes their fancy.

At the present time the UK has restrictions on the Romanians and Bulgarians moving here to live, but these are only in place for three years. If Rome's new Mayor decides to make life uncomfortable for the Roma there, we might see them turning a wistful eye towards the UK and to Slough in particular.

Although Slough may not have the same picture postcard appeal as Rome, that will be of little concern to the Roma. In Slough they would get to live in a proper house and crowd all the relatives in as well, and no-one there seems to mind very much that they do not understand the everyday minutiae of such services as rubbish collection. Travellers traditionally have never had to worry about such mundane matters - they just move on and leave others to clear up the mess.

Slough was the only place in England to have a swing towards Labour at the May Council elections. Now that could be due to the vagaries of the postal voting system or it might just be down to the grateful Roma already there, thanking Labour for putting out the welcome mat whilst awaiting the arrival of their kith and kin.

ROMA IN ROME: Movement is easy now the EU has done away with sovereign borders.

News according to the BBC

THE Scots and the Welsh have been complaining just recently that the BBC gives very little news coverage to events in their own particular countries.

I have to agree that last year the BBC did choose to ignore the shenanigans at the Welsh Assembly, when the Labour Party were desperately trying to form a coalition with one of the other parties without them looking upon it as a kiss of death.

The BBC instead preferred to dwell on the exploits of Shambo the Sacred Cow. Probably to show to the world what a diverse country Wales has now become: its hills no longer just clothed in sheep, but finding room for a tuberculin infested Hindu bullock.

I would like to reassure the Welsh and Scots that the BBC also finds scant time to report events in England and the near continent, preferring instead to describe at length pro-democracy rallies in far away lands which most of us cannot pin point on a map.

I believe that the BBC does not like to dwell over long on events in the Scottish Parliament or the Welsh Assembly as it draws attention to England's democratic deficit.

The recent Planning Law is a good example of this deficit, when decisions on large scale projects were taken away from local Councils and given to unelected quangos. The Bill was only passed with the assistance of the Scottish Labour MPs, and why not? Planning is after all a despised

I can only assume that the English quietly accept this state of affairs because most of them are unaware of the anomalies wrought by the devolution settlement at Westminster. Certainly the BBC makes no attempt to inform them, preferring instead to dwell on the lack of democracy in Zimbabwe.

Liverpool's trailer hits headlines

THE August meeting of Liverpool BNP broke the attendance record for a local meeting with 105 people turning up to hear the BNP chairman Nick Griffin.

Organiser Steve Greenhalgh, was delighted:

"We have broken another record here on Merseyside, which is testament to all the hard work of our branch members, who have the passion and determination to spread the BNP message in this once notorious left-wing militant city."

The high spot of the evening was the presentation of the newly founded Michael Shiel Award.

The award is in memory of the former Liverpool fundholder and activist who sadly passed away in June. It will be presented annually to the person who has been named by their peers as the most hardworking activist and this year it was Steve Davies who was presented with the shield by Nick Griffin.

Steve told the audience:

"I am very honoured to receive this award, especially with the amount of very hardworking activists that we currently have in Liverpool BNP. I would like to thank my fellow branch members because without their team spirit and dedication, we wouldn't be doing half as well in Liverpool."

During the month of July the Liverpool Branch has featured in the Liverpool Echo and Liverpool Daily Post, mainly centred around the branch's trailer which accompanies them out leafleting in the city. There have also been supportive letters in the press.

BNP calls for HIV tests for hospital staff

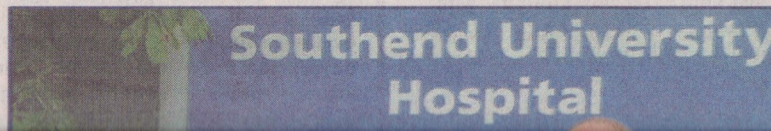

THE Southend branch of the British National Party held a demonstration outside the gates of Southend Hospital after it was reported in the local newspaper that HIV tests for hospital staff were not compulsory.

The revelation came to light after a medic working as part of a surgical team, which handled Caesarean section births at Basildon and Southend hospitals, tested positive for the virus. The unnamed worker had treated more than 200 women, all of whom have been notified by the NHS trust and offered an HIV test.

This is the second time NHS patients have been exposed to the HIV virus in Essex. In October 2000, 5,000 patients were informed that a dental worker was HIV positive.

BNP leaflets "NHS In Crisis" were also handed out highlighting the £512 million deficit, more than double the £200 million target. The leaflet also exposes the scandal of the closure of 1,000 beds which are to go along with 15,000 jobs in the NHS.

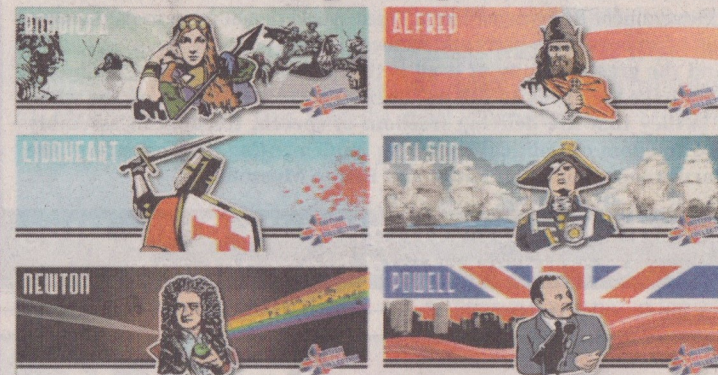

Pay tribute to six of the greatest heroes to walk this island nation-- Boudicca, Alfred the Great, Richard I Lionheart, Isaac Newton, Horatio Nelson and Enoch Powell-- all featured in a brand new range of mugs and t-shirts.

Labour are the real nazis

IT was quite an incredible scene. People dressed in black, with their faces masked by scarves, using car tyres to barricade a road and then stoning the police as they tried to remove the obstruction. There was the sound of sirens as police reinforcements arrived. There were the scuffles as 33 arrests were made. There was the beat of the blades of the police helicopter as this 'eye in the sky' tracked another breakaway group of protestors.

And all the while a queue of law-abiding British men and women, many with their children, waited patiently in their cars for the road to be cleared so that they could attend a gathering of the political party they support. Labour Party thugs, goaded on by Labour MP Judy Mallaber, and trade union boss Bob Crow, and transported from all corners of the country thanks to trade union and Labour money, were trying to deny the right of assembly to members and supporters of an opposition political party by violence and intimidation.

Thankfully our television news bulletins and newspapers captured the scenes and, with just a couple of exceptions, reported accurately what had taken place. It will be a wake-up call for many, to see the sort of violent confrontation our Government not only sanctions but actively encourages. For over five years the British National Party has had to bear the brunt of a series of attacks from this Labour Government. There have been the blatant frontal assaults such as the scenes just described and the campaign of intimidation and hate, including death threats, orchestrated against our elected councillors.

There has been the attempt to imprison our Party's leadership as seen by the trumped up 'race hate' charges filed against Nick Griffin and Mark Collett which were thrown out by the jury at Leeds Crown Court.

There has been the more subtle persecution of individual members who have lost their jobs as teachers, health service workers and civil servants. There has been the targeting of those seeking employment within the police and prison service, who have been blacklisted even if they have outstanding credentials for the job, solely because of their membership of the BNP.

NICK & NINA: Nick Griffin and Broxtowe organiser, Nina Brown, chatting after the hugely successful meeting (see page 14).

THE "Righteous Anger and Political Action" disclaimer that appears in every issue of Freedom should be more widely publicised.

I think that it should be on all leaflets, election addresses, Party adverts and press releases to dispel the unfounded fears of those who want to join the BNP but are worried about what the media says about us.

I am a very proud member of the BNP and lose no opportunity to try and bring more people 'on board'. Unfortunately it is very common indeed to meet someone who believes in all the tenets and policies we believe in, but refuse to join us because of concerns over our image.

Losing your home

OVER a million Britons are now in severe financial difficulties because of the rising cost of fuel, the rising cost of living and the rising cost of gas and electricity.

With home repossessions now already at unprecedented levels, the families in difficulties face yet another piece of anti-British legislation.

Those who have had their homes repossessed and are hoping that their local council will be able to accommodate them, will be disappointed.

Because someone has been unable to keep up their mortgage repayments, the local council has no legal right to find them a council home because by not paying the mortgage they have made themselves 'intentionally homeless'.

But this policy doesn't apply to asylum seekers and immigrants - who have made themselves homeless by leaving their own country - in fact, they go to the front of the housing queue when

Back from Iraq

I AM a member of the British National Party and of the reserve armed forces - the Royal Auxiliary Air Force.

Last year I volunteered for service abroad and was sent to Iraq. As a reservist I receive an annual bounty like the TA do, which was processed and I received the payment in April.

But now I have received a letter from the RAF saying that the payment was made in error and they want it back.

Apparently, when a reservist is called up for full-time service, he ceases to be a reservist and becomes a full-time regular serviceman.

Full-time service personnel do not get annual bounties, so time spent as a regular serviceman does not count towards a reservist's annual commitment.

I'm afraid this is typical of the way British servicemen are treated - we were bombarded by missiles virtually every day in Iraq and yet the bean counters want their money back.

Name and address withheld.

And when the time for the votes to be counted arrives, ballot boxes have been broken into by Labour Party officials and BNP votes defaced to make them invalid.

When the history of these times comes to be written, many of those people with influence within our society today will have to hang their heads in shame, because they stood by and allowed, without one word of criticism, a Government Party to act like a Third World dictatorship in its persecution of an opposition party and its members.

And the greatest irony of it all is that Gordon Brown and his bully-boys have the cheek to call us 'nazis and fascists', when all the while it is they that are denying freedom of speech, freedom of assembly and freedom of political choice by implementing the methods of the stormtroopers of Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini.

Destroying Sussex

THIS wretched Government now seems determined to destroy our glorious county of Sussex!

Parmjit Dhanda, a Communities Minister, has announced a requirement to build a further 119,000 houses across Sussex by 2026, including 11,000 new homes in Wealden where I live.

These plans will include building on our rapidly dwindling Green Belt and one wonders why this is necessary as I haven't noticed any shanty towns springing up because of shortage of accommodation.

This is yet another attack on our identity and our environment and I just hope the people of Sussex can find the courage to stand up to these planned developments and say NO!

No Bibles please

NEXT year, on my retirement, I thought I might visit the Maldives as its looks to be paradise with clear blue water and a wonderful array of fish including Manta Rays.

I bought a guide book and was surprised to find that it is a Muslim country and that I am not allowed to bring with me alcohol, a Bible or any "idols", which might include my car.

EU grounds the Dakota

EUROPEAN Union rules and regulations continue to make unwanted inroads into British lives, be they concerned with our work or leisure.

One of the latest intrusions has brought to an end the pleasure flights provided by a veteran Dakota DC-3 aircraft.

The aircraft, built for the US Air Force in 1943, was used in the Berlin airlift after being transferred to the RAF in 1946.

Since then hundreds of aviation enthusiasts have enjoyed the pleasure flights in this historic aircraft... but not any more!

The new EU rules governing any passenger-carrying plane, require modifications which would be impossible

Poles avoid paying tax

I think your readers will be interested to learn that some Polish workmates of mine have never paid income tax since they started working in 2005 at Butlins.

The Government allows them a year's work without having to pay income tax, because they return to Poland once a year to visit family, so the tax exemption restarts to Day 1 on their return.

They also tell me that many of their fellow countrymen working at Butlins in Bognor Regis haven't paid any income tax either.

When Labour politicians tell us how beneficial migrant workers are to the economy, someone should raise the issue of these non-tax paying Poles.

And when the time for the votes to be counted arrives, ballot boxes have been broken into by Labour Party officials and BNP votes defaced to make them invalid.

When the history of these times comes to be written, many of those people with influence within our society today will have to hang their heads in shame, because they stood by and allowed, without one word of criticism, a Government Party to act like a Third World dictatorship in its persecution of an opposition party and its members.

And the greatest irony of it all is that Gordon Brown and his bully-boys have the cheek to call us 'nazis and fascists', when all the while it is they that are denying freedom of speech, freedom of assembly and freedom of political choice by implementing the methods of the stormtroopers of Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini.

years of those who want to join the BNP but are worried about what the media says about us.

I am a very proud member of the BNP and lose no opportunity to try and bring more people 'on board'. Unfortunately it is very common indeed to meet someone who believes in all the tenets and policies we believe in, but refuse to join us because of concerns over our image.

Destroying Sussex

THIS wretched Government now seems determined to destroy our glorious county of Sussex!

Parmjit Dhanda, a Communities Minister, has announced a requirement to build a further 119,000 houses across Sussex by 2026, including 11,000 new homes in Wealden where I live.

These plans will include building on our rapidly dwindling Green Belt and one wonders why this is necessary as I haven't noticed any shanty towns springing up because of shortage of accommodation.

This is yet another attack on our identity and our environment and I just hope the people of Sussex can find the courage to stand up to these planned developments and say NO!

Mike Corfield, email.

No Bibles please

NEXT year, on my retirement, I thought I might visit the Maldives as its looks to be paradise with clear blue water and a wonderful array of fish including Manta Rays.

I bought a guide book and was surprised to find that it is a Muslim country and that I am not allowed to bring with me alcohol, a Bible or any "idols", which might include my crucifix.

Britain allows Muslims coming to this country to bring the Koran with them, so shouldn't Muslim countries allow Christians to have their Bibles with them when they visit?

John Waller, email.

anti-British legislation. Those who have had their homes repossessed and are hoping that their local council will be able to accommodate them, will be disappointed. Because someone has been unable to keep up their mortgage repayments, the local council has no legal right to find them a council home because by not paying the mortgage they have made themselves 'intentionally homeless'.

But this policy doesn't apply to asylum seekers and immigrants - who have made themselves homeless by leaving their own country - in fact, they go to the front of the housing queue when they arrive in Britain.

Local councils are discriminating against British people by giving this preferential treatment to immigrants and it's a policy your local BNP representatives will be working to change.

Cllr Kevin Edwards, West Wales BNP.

EU grounds the Dakota

EUROPEAN Union rules and regulations continue to make unwanted inroads into British lives, be they concerned with our work or leisure.

One of the latest intrusions has brought to an end the pleasure flights provided by a veteran Dakota DC-3 aircraft.

The aircraft, built for the US Air Force in 1943, was used in the Berlin airlift after being transferred to the RAF in 1946.

Since then hundreds of aviation enthusiasts have enjoyed the pleasure flights in this historic aircraft... but not any more!

The new EU rules governing any passenger-carrying plane, require modifications which would be impossible in an aircraft like the DC-3.

Although passenger safety should always take precedence, surely the excellent safety record of this plane should speak for itself.

Trisha Scott, Scarborough.

received the payment in April. But now I have received a letter from the RAF saying that the payment was made in error and they want it back. Apparently, when a reservist is called up for full-time service, he ceases to be a reservist and becomes a full-time regular serviceman.

Full-time service personnel do not get annual bounties, so time spent as a regular serviceman does not count towards a reservist's annual commitment.

I'm afraid this is typical of the way British servicemen are treated - we were bombarded by missiles virtually every day in Iraq and yet the bean counters want their money back.

Poles avoid paying tax

I think your readers will be interested to learn that some Polish workmates of mine have never paid income tax since they started working in 2005 at Butlins.

The Government allows them a year's work without having to pay income tax, because they return to Poland once a year to visit family, so the tax exemption restarts to Day 1 on their return.

They also tell me that many of their fellow countrymen working at Butlins in Bognor Regis haven't paid any income tax either.

When Labour politicians tell us how beneficial migrant workers are to the economy, someone should raise the issue of these non-tax paying Poles.

David Walsh, email.

Serves them right!

ON 20th October 2004, HSBC closed the bank accounts it held on behalf of the British National Party.

It was a political decision prompted by pressure from the Labour Government. On 4th August 2008, HSBC issued a warning to shareholders that its profits had fallen by 28%.

Doesn't that serve them right!

BNP alone stands up for free speech in council chamber

COUNCILLOR Joanna Beverley (Elmfield ward, Morley Town Council) spoke up in defence of local democracy at a recent full meeting of Morley Town Council.

The BNP's only representative on the council, who was elected in May 2007 with 432 votes, was disappointed that the other councillors had banded together to prevent her from sitting on a single committee. She told the meeting and a packed public gallery:

"Last year I was a member of the planning committee. I attended every single meeting and I always made worthwhile contributions to discussions. Despite this, I have not been allocated a single place on any committee this year.

"Every councillor on this council has been allocated at least one committee place. I would like someone to explain to me, the council and the members of the public here today, why you have chosen to exclude me from every single committee on this council."

JOANNA BEVERLEY:
Determined to stand up to bullies on her local council.

This is just a typical example of councillors behaving like bullies and ignoring the wishes of the people of Morley who elected me to this council."

Since being elected Joanna has never missed a meeting, which is more than can be said of many of the other councillors. But despite being a lone BNP voice on the council she is refusing to be intimidated.

She spoke on another motion condemning moves to stifle debate about the issue of introducing a directly elected mayor in Morley.

"It is not the business of this council to play fast and loose with free speech and local democracy.

"It is totally undemocratic to demand that voters are only allowed to have their say when the question posed is favourable to the ruling clique on this council."

Despite having to work under these extremely difficult conditions, Joanna has pledged to continue to speak up in defence of democracy and free speech in Morley.

BNP councillor battles for new gym roof

MARK Logan, the BNP councillor for Gooshays ward on Havering Council, is hoping to help his local boxing gym get a new roof before winter sets in.

The gym is popular with youngsters keen to learn the skills of the ring and Mark wants to ensure that it stays open as it is a vital part of the local community.

MARK LOGAN:
With some of the gym's aspiring boxers.

"I've visited the gym and have seen the work that needs doing," Mark told Freedom. "I'm hoping that my Community Action Team will be able to undertake the work."

This is a group of volunteer tradesmen - decorators, carpenters, electricians, plumbers and builders - who offer their services free of charge to those Gooshays residents who need vital work done but are unable to afford it. The team have already helped an elderly resident with construction works, carried out a small refurbishment for another, and agreed to help renovate the RSPCA Office in Chippenham Road.

BROXTOWE: It's a full house to hear the British National Party chairman take questions from the floor.

Questions and answers: Nick Griffin goes where the old gang politicians fear to tread

NICK Griffin received a very warm welcome when he spoke to an enthusiastic audience of over 100 at the August meeting of Broxtowe BNP.

Local organiser Nina Brown, opened the meeting with a report detailing plans for the group in the run-up to next year's county and European elections.

She reported that it has been a very good six months for the Broxtowe Group with activists quietly concentrating on fundraising, increasing the sale of the Party's literature - which has more than doubled since this time last year - and holding several social evenings with members throughout the borough. Maurice Collett announced that although he was still in the process of collecting funds raised for his sponsored bike ride from Leicestershire to Skegness recently, the total so far was just over £2,000.

After a break for tea, coffee and biscuits, the Party Chairman held a question and answer session with questions from the audience covering a range of hot topics such as crime, the energy crisis, immigration and the European Union. No politician from any of the old gang parties would dare to attempt this without a script of carefully filtered questions with the pre-prepared answers.

A collection of £375 was taken and this, along with money from the sale of Excalibur merchandise, raised the evening's total to £588.

MAURICE COLLETT: His bike ride to Skegness raised £2,000 for the BNP.

Swansea BNP hear how Labour's lost the plot in Rotherham

ANOTHER very successful and well attended meeting took place in Swansea last month, with locals being joined by members and supporters from as far away as Gwent and Ammanford

A two minute silence was observed at the beginning of the meeting in respect of those troops killed in action in Afghanistan and Iraq. In the introduction to the silence it was pointed out that although we know the number of servicemen who have lost their lives, there is no record available of the number of wounded - many of whom are scarred for life.

Guest speaker, Marlene Guest from Rotherham, kept everyone both entertained and well informed while supporting speaker, BNP councillor John Gamble, who travelled down with Marlene, gave an insight into the workings of the Labour-run council in Rotherham.

John reported that "democracy is teetering on the brink in Rotherham" and his anecdotes, on this very serious situation, were quite amusing as his detailed how Labour had in fact "lost the plot" in this part of South Yorkshire.

*The meeting ended off a busy day for the Swansea officials who had earlier attended the Annual Regional Council Meeting for BNP Wales.

THANK YOU: Marlene Guest is presented with a bouquet of flowers by the Swansea committee. Rotherham BNP councillor John Gamble, is standing behind her.

BNP expands in East Sussex

The Eastbourne group has been expanded to include Wealden and Lewes so that more areas of East Sussex are covered by the British National Party umbrella.

The first meeting at a venue in Polegate was chaired by East Sussex and Jim Baxter on how everyone had a role to play in the Party as candidates, leafleters, canvassers and also as ambassadors for the Party in its quest to win over new recruits.

BNP expands in East Sussex

The Eastbourne group has been expanded to include Wealden and Lewes so that more areas of East Sussex are covered by the British National Party umbrella.

The first meeting at a venue in Polegate was chaired by East Sussex Organiser Nick Prince, and speakers included Val Manchee who spoke on Islamophobia, Chris Barnett on his experiences of the count at the London Assembly elections.

LEN Blain ((left) was very pleased with his 13% share of the vote in the North ward by-election for Maldon District Council at the beginning of August.

Contesting the ward for the very first time, it was a real team effort that ensured all the leaflets were delivered and the BNP candidate trounced his UKIP rival.

"We owe a big thank you to Stewart Freeman, the Southend Organiser, who brought over his election team, and to helpers from Colchester, otherwise we would never have got out all the leaflets," Clive Godfrey, the Maldon & Braintree BNP organiser, told Freedom.

"Labour couldn't even put up a candidate, so we are happy with our performance in a Tory stronghold."

Three meetings and a by-election campaign keep Cumbria BNP busy

by Clive Jefferson

IT'S been a busy month for the British National Party units in Cumbria with three meetings and a by-election campaign.

There was a well attended meeting in Brampton which was the scene of our very first by-election campaign in the north of the county back in 2007.

The Cumberland News tried to do a hatchet job on our election workers with a report entitled "BNPs men in black cast a dark shadow over poll," which referred to those of us selling Freedom at a stall in the centre of Brampton. It's no wonder the sales of this newspaper are falling through the floor with many of the 3,000 people in Carlisle who voted BNP this year upset by the way the local media misrepresents the party they support.

There was also a county day of action with leafleters covering several areas, including Barrow down in the south where Mike Ashburner is contesting the Newbarns by-election.

In Workington, Arthur Kemp, one of the Party's finest speakers, and Ken Booth, the BNP's North East Regional Organiser, addressed a meeting of Allerdale BNP.

Two days later there was a meeting of Carlisle BNP chaired by the new organiser - Alistair Barbour.

He takes over from Brian Allan who has done a fantastic job in the run-up to this year's elections with a record 10 candidates. Brian now wants to concentrate on his Currock ward, where he polled 29% in May, for next year's Cumbria County Council elections.

Alistair polled 22% in the recent Upperby by-election and is also our first councillor in Eden, having been co-opted onto Hesket Parish Council.

Nick Griffin praises Bradford's character

TOP TABLE: Nick Griffin, Adrian Marsden and Bradford councillor, Paul Cromie.

THE Bradford branch of the British National Party gave a very warm welcome to BNP chairman Nick Griffin, when he spoke at their July meeting.

The meeting was chaired by Yorkshire Regional Organiser Adrian Marsden, and following the customary introductions and updates of activities, local councillor Paul Cromie, gave the audience of 100 an insight into what it is like to be British National Party councillor in a city like Bradford.

Nick Griffin delivered a passionate speech centred on the strength of character of Bradford folk who have endured street riots, the disgraceful antics of trade union leaders and politically correct police chiefs as well as a biased local media.

The Cost of Europe

"Britain's membership of the EU costs the taxpayer £8.5 billion every year"

But the costs of membership are not just monetary...

- ★ Jobs Thanks to the European Union, British businesses are weighed down with bureaucracy and red tape, costing hundreds of thousands of jobs.
- ★ Sovereignty The EU is taking power away from Westminster, and giving it in the hands of unelected bureaucrats.
- ★ Currency Every member nation will be forced to join the Euro, that means no more pounds, and no more control over our economy.
- ★ Defence £300 billion of British taxpayers' money is being spent on the annual losses of a US-led NATO 'peacekeeping' force.

OUR GREEN AND PLEASANT LAND BULLDOZED

STOP THE BUILDING!

Our countryside is vanishing beneath a tidal wave of concrete. Labour, Lib Dem and the Tories all support letting greedy developers build up to 200,000 new houses every year for twenty years.

The politicians are even changing planning laws to allow them to build wherever they like. They don't care if the countryside is lost. They don't care if the green light is lost.

The biggest reason all these new houses are needed is immigration. One third of all new houses are for immigrants and asylum seekers. Most of the rest will be taken up by the growing families of high birthrate immigrants, and by white flight from inner-city areas.

All the extra specialist development means more building on flood plains, less fertile green fields, less space and more congestion. At a time when oil and energy supplies are running low and the world is facing global warming, this is all utter madness. Immigration is creating an environmental disaster!

Another successful casino evening for the Cromwell Club

by Dave Fairclough

THE East Midlands BNP Cromwell Diners' Club enjoyed a highly successful fund-raising evening in July with a buffet and fun casino at a popular pub in the heart of the National Forest in Leicestershire.

Around 50 members and locals joined together in friendly surroundings to enjoy a superb buffet and fine traditional English Ales, before trying their hands at the fun casino's roulette wheel and blackjack table.

Andy Croxall helped organise the second of these successful fund-raising events and the sumptuous buffet, including home baked ham on the bone, was prepared by Melanie

READY FOR THE OFF: A sumptuous buffet before trying their luck at the fun casino.

Fairclough. A bonus for the evening was the number of locals who expressed an interest in the British National Party and the occasion provided a useful opportunity for us to increase our support in this area.

OUR GREEN AND PLEASANT LAND BULLDOZED

STOP THE BUILDING!

Our countryside is vanishing beneath a tidal wave of concrete, Labour, Lib Dem and the Tories all support taking green spaces built up to 150,000 new houses every year for twenty years.

The politicians are even changing planning laws to give local authority councils the right to build developments that local communities don't want or need. Central government will give the green light to Britain's bulldozers!

The biggest reason all these new houses are needed is speculation. One third of all new houses are for speculative and private use. Most of the rest will be taken up by the growing number of high technology immigrants, and by white flight from inner-city multicultural cities.

All the extra greenfield development means more building on flood plains, less healthy green land, more space and noise congestion. At a time when energy supplies are running low and the world is facing growing food shortages, this is all user madness. Transportation is creating an environmental disaster!

Crime & Antisocial Behaviour Are Out Of Control

Robberies are up, muggings and sexual assaults are up, burglary is up. A wave of anti-social behaviour is sweeping our streets and estates with a minority of every youth making life unpleasant for the law abiding majority. But where are all the police? But behind desks learning how to be politically correct?

When the police aren't out of offices they're far too busy chasing drivers to collect a range of different fines and penalties to get more Labour sleazebag law breakers. It seems that even Labour view the police as the only real threat to public safety!

But while the police are out of the moneyway or in political correctness class wars the real criminals are free to wreck decent families home.

The British National Party would put police back on the streets where they belong. The police would not have their hands tied by politically correct hand cuffs and would be able to deal with criminals without fear of losing their jobs.

☐ EUROPEAN UNION

British withdrawal from the European Union to restore Britain's freedom. We will be happy to trade with other European countries where it benefits Britain, but we don't want any political ties or monetary union.

☐ LAW & ORDER

A crack-down on crime with many more 'Bobbies on the Beat'. Much tougher treatment of criminals, including the return of the death penalty for child killers and terrorists. A zero tolerance policy towards drug-dealers and violent thugs.

☐ BRITISH INDUSTRY

British ownership and control of British industry and resources, including the mass media. The protection of British jobs and industry by selective exclusion of foreign manufactured goods from the British market.

☐ DEFENCE

A defence policy based on the principle of armed neutrality. No British blood should be shed in conflicts which do not involve British interests. The restoration of the County Regiment system and the reversal of defence cuts.

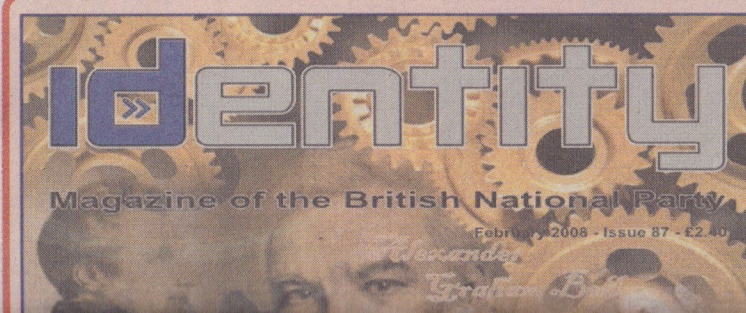

A new British National Party broadsheet called The Countrysider, concentrating on environmental, agricultural and self-sufficiency issues will be available from the beginning of September.

The Countrysider is produced by the BNP's Land & People team and will be published on a by-monthly basis and delivered to the regions in quantities of 1,500 to 2,500 per issue for distribution to a specifically targeted market.

The September/October issue will be of special interest to farmers in general and dairy livestock, sugar beet and pig farmers, in particular.

Subscription to The Countrysider is £3 for 6 issues from: Land & People, PO Box 351, Torquay, Devon TQ2 8XN (cheques payable to British Heritage)
